TEXT:
 The Denver Metro Convention & Visitors Bureau will open its Downtown information center Thursday - complete with live music and drawings for prizes - at its new, expanded location in the Tabor Center.

The new center replaces the center at Colfax and 14th St., which has been closed and was the site of the bureau's Downtown facility since 1950.

/TX

Features of the new center include additional space, many more services and a location with higher visitor traffic.
 New at the center are a computer terminal so visitors can access the bureau's Web site, TV monitors to present videos on area attractions, an expanded brochure rack detailing hundreds of area attractions and a gift shop that will sell Denver souvenirs, including guide books, clothes, maps and postcards.

Eugene Dilbeck, the bureau's president, said when the old center was built, the main attraction was the U.S. Mint, but he noted that traffic has shifted from that area. Now, he said, research shows that the 16th Street Mall is the second largest attraction in Denver.
