

SEC ONLINE™FILE DESCRIPTION

SEC Online™ is a full-text database of reports filed by public companies with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. All companies on the New York and American Stock Exchanges, as well as over 2,000 NASDAQ National Market Share companies, are included in the SEC ONLINE database, which contains the actual, unedited text of these companies' 10-K's, 10-Q's, 20-F's, Annual Reports and Proxy Statements, including any amendments to them.

SUBJECT COVERAGE

The SEC ONLINE database provides the following documents, as filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission:

File 541:

- Annual Report: Not required to be filed with the SEC. The Annual Report is a report to shareholders which discloses corporate information and includes an opening letter from the Chief Executive Officer summarizing results of the prior year and the forecast and outlook for the upcoming fiscal year.

File 542:

- Form 10-K: Official annual report filed by U.S. public companies within 90 days after fiscal year-end.
- Form 20-F: Official annual report filed by non-U.S., non-Canadian registrants within 6 months after the fiscal year-end.

File 543:

- Form 10-Q: Official quarterly report filed within 45 days after the close of each quarter.

File 544:

- Proxy Statement: Official report/notification to shareholders of shareholder meetings and issues to be voted upon.

	This is Knight-Ridder
	The Company
	Knight-Ridder, Inc., is an international information and communications company engaged in newspaper publishing, business news and information services, electronic retrieval services, news, graphic and photo services, cable television and newsprint manufacturing. Knight Ridder has various information services reach more than 100 million people in 129 countries.
	History
	The Knight group of newspapers, was begun in 1903 when Charles Landon Knight purchased the Akron Beacon Journal. The Ridder group of newspapers started in 1892 when Herman Ridder acquired German-language Staats-Zeitung in New York. Both groups flourished each taking its stock public in 1969. In 1974, Knight Newspapers, and Ridder Publications, Inc., merged to form a national company with operations coast to coast.
	The Business Information Services Division was formally established in 1983 with the Journal of Commerce and Commodity News Services.
	Company Goals
	Knight-Ridder's 10 long-term goals, approved by the Board of Directors in December 1989, are:
/TX	1. Keep Knight-Ridder financially healthy and independent so as to remain in control of our values and our destiny to the benefit of our mid-and long-term shareholders.
	Strive to achieve better-than-average profit margins and year-to-year earnings per share growth.
	Manage Knight-Ridder's assets energetically through acquisitions, divestitures and capital expenditures, with the goal of maximizing shareholder value.
	2. Preserve and enhance the Knight-Ridder tradition of quality, reader-focused, public service-oriented journalism.

Knight-Ridder People: Finding New Ways to Do a Good Job Better

IMPROVEMENTS FOR CUSTOMERS! The phrase on the slate tells a good deal about Knight-Ridder's activities in 1989. All over our company, our people took specific steps to find new and creative ways--large and small--to satisfy the needs of the people who rely on us. Around the world, in 129 countries, news, advertising and information from Knight-Ridder reached more than 100 million people every day.

On the cover we take pleasure in introducing two 1989 Knight-Ridder Excellence Award winners and five members of their staffs who exemplify our aggressive ongoing efforts to meet the needs of our readers, advertisers and information users.
