TEXT:
 /LP,/TX,/XT from BERNAMA The Malaysian National News Agency
 BEIJING, June 4 (Bernama-Xinhua) -- China will manufacture 100-seat aircraft by year 2003, the Aviation Industries of China (AVIC) has announced today.

A joint venture set up by the AVIC, the Science and Technology company of Singapore, and the AIA company of Europe will turn out 105-and 125-seat airliners.

/TX The general assembly line will be in China.
 AVIC holds 46 percent of the total shares of the airbus project,
 the AIA holds 39 percent, and the Singaporean Enterprise, 15 percent. European counterparts will provide technology and experience in terms of engineering, production, quality inspection and service, AVIC said. The project is an important step in AVIC's plan to manufacture jet airliners by its own.

At present, the country is expanding the production of MD-90 airliners,meaning the first-step plan is in full operation.
 China is regarded as the largest potential aviation market in the world. In the remaining years of this century, the country will add 250 airliners.
