/LP, /TX TOKYO, April 26 - The Boeing Company said on Monday that it had kicked off its 7E7 jet, its first new airplane in more than a decade, after receiving an order from Japan's All Nippon Airways for 50 planes.

/TX The order from All Nippon Airways was the largest in Boeing's history, the company said, which estimated the deal at $6 billion, based on the jet's list price. But as the first customer for the medium-range airplane, nicknamed the Dreamliner, analysts said that All Nippon most likely received a significant discount.

TEXT:
/LP, /TX Boeing Co. followed the intent of congressional law in its strategy to provide new tanker aircraft to the U.S. Air Force, officials told The DAILY in a continuing defense of the deal.

/TX "The intent of Congress was that the Air Force and Boeing work together using widely accepted commercial practices to find a way to deliver 100 tanker aircraft to the warfighter far sooner than traditional non-commercial DOD practices allow," Jim Albaugh, president and CEO of Boeing Integrated Defense Systems, said of the lease-buy arrangement for KC-767A tankers.

Boeing has launched a vigorous defense of its negotiations with Air Force officials, which were sharply criticized in a Defense Department inspector general's report (DAILY, April 12) and have come under fire from Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee.
